Featured Ingredient: Caramel!

Hi! I'm Caramel!

"I'm a sweet confection made from sugar. You may find me coating the outside of popcorn or an apple on a stick, drizzled over ice cream, or formed into a chewy candy!"

Arabs are thought to have created the first mixture of sugar and water in 1000 CE.

The word "caramel" was first recorded in the English language in 1725—it comes from the French "caramel" borrowed from the Spanish "caramelo." The original Spanish word did not refer to the chewy caramel candy we know today, but more likely, to caramelized sugar.

Caramel is simply sugar melted, with liquid or without, into a syrup and cooked until the sugar crystals turn into a medium to dark amber liquid. In this form, you can coat nuts (pralines) and popcorn, thicken it into a sauce, and many other delights. Whisk in some butter, remove from the heat, whisk in cream, and you have a delicious caramel sauce.

Did you know that Milton Hershey began his chocolate empire with caramel, not chocolate? Hershey was born in 1857 in Pennsylvania and founded a candy-making business in Lancaster, Pennsylvania. By 1883, he had pioneered the production of caramel and established the Lancaster Caramel Company. In 1893, he sold that company and started the Hershey Chocolate Company with the proceeds.

The "crème caramel," a custard topped with caramel, was first published in a cookbook by Jean Baptiste Reboul in 1897.

In 1977, French pastry chef Henri Le Roux created salted caramel when he made his "caramel au beurre salé," a salted butter caramel coated with crushed nuts.
